

Privacy Policy

Wilson Truck Lines has created this privacy statement in order to state and demonstrate our commitment to the privacy of our website visitors. We hereby state that Wilson's Truck Lines will not sell or share your personal information to any other party without your prior notification and approval, and that any and all information gathered is strictly used internally to better service our customers. Wilson Truck Lines will not gather information from your computer without your consent.

Our registration forms require users to give us contact information. We use customer contact information from the registration form to send the user passwords for information about our company and other information that might be useful. The customer's contact information is also used to personally contact the customer when necessary. Users may opt-out of receiving future mailings at any time through the use of the registration page found on our website, or by sending us an email.

Our online surveys may ask visitors for a variety of demographic information. This demographic and profile data may be collected from our users to improve our product and customer service, and is completely optional.

All data is collected in a secure environment to ensure that your information is safe. This site has security measures in place to protect the loss, misuse and alteration of the information under our control. Wilson Truck Lines will make every reasonable attempt to ensure your information is safe and is not distributed outside of our company. If you have any questions about this privacy statement, the practices of this site, or your dealings with our company, please contact our: Privacy Officer
